WEATHER—Snow tonight and probably Saturday. Colder Saturday.

It has been extremely difficult to get anybody to talk anything but Thaw, for several days.

The Thaw jury did not have as easy a task as most people supposed.

They are going to erect a statue of "Quint" in Boston. A sort of set-off for Thomas W. Lawson.

The baseball fan is no longer counting the days to the opening game. He is now counting the hours.

"Why are so many women invalids?" asks Good Health. Presumably, because the doctors need the money.

As an evidence that Canada is rapidly becoming Americanized fifteen persons were killed on the Canadian Central railway.

"Missouri stands by the mule" says a Georgian exchange. But if she doesn't want "to be shown" she will stand near the head of the mule.

The fact that Mr. Richard Mansfield has declared for Roosevelt for a third term, is a sign that the third term idea is rather unpopular.

Evelyn's experience on the witness stand was a very trying one, but those days were not nearly so strenuous as the ones since the jury retired.

If the earthquake was sent upon San Francisco for its sins, why didn't it destroy Abe Ruef and Schmitz instead of so many acres of improved real estate.

Now that the Thaw trial is practically concluded, Evelyn's mother can begin to recover from the indisposition from which she has been suffering since the trial began.

The "captains of industry" who are announcing that they will henceforth take the public into their confidence, are likely to find the public fighting shy of confidence games just now.

The veterinary surgeon who has been employed by the Hagenbeck circus to pull a tooth from the jaw of a lion is not likely to waste any time in asking his patient whether it hurt.

"I have been so busily occupied that I have had neither time nor inclination to even think about politics, State or National," remarked Senator Foraker a few days since. Has the Senator no fear of being assigned to the Annanias club?

President Smith of the Mormon church is out in an interview strongly denouncing polygamy. The combination of high prices and the Easter season was entirely too much for the old fellow.

The telegraph companies raise the wages of the employees. Hurrah! The telegraph companies raise the rates on messages 33 1-3 per cent. Hurrah some more! Puzzle: Who always and invariably pays the freight?

Speaker Cannon is reported to have had the time of his life on the trip to Panama, but as he manages to have the time of his life wherever he happens to be, there seems to be no need of getting excited over it.

In what a predicament these republican editors who have come out so strongly against Taft would find themselves now, if Senator Foraker should determine to let Taft have the Ohio delegation for president and devote his time and efforts to succeeding himself in the senate.

A large number of Stanford White's pictures were sold at auction in New York yesterday and nearly every one brought an extremely low price. Another evidence that the public takes a great deal of stock in Evelyn's story and frowns upon the demon of the over.

Mrs. Holman, Evelyn's mother last night expressed the desire that Thaw be acquitted. What a change of heart has come over this woman since Attorney Delmas told her jury just what he thought of her. Then, too, the fact that Stanford White is dead may have had something to do with her changing her mind.

It must have been quite interesting to see ex-Foraker men at Columbus side-stepping the senior senator yesterday. Some called to see him, found him busy, and took their departure very much in the same manner that a man slips his card under the door when he knows the family is all away from home and makes this formality take the place of a party call.

The second grand jury has just refused to indict George K. Favrot, the Louisiana congressman who shot a physician because he made disparaging remarks about Mrs. Favrot. This case was likened to the Thaw case and the result of the grand jury's investigation tends to prove the statement that if Harry Thaw were being tried in any state west of the Alleghany mountains or south of the old Mason-Dixon line, he would have been set free long ago.

FORAKER.

He admitted his endorsement of Tyler for a place but would not say he would allow the appointment to be confirmed in the senate without his protest.

Another appointment which was not discussed was that of John E. Sater of Columbus as United States district judge. During the evening Judge Sater paid his respects to Senator Foraker in his rooms at the Chittenden hotel. They are old acquaintances.

During the afternoon Judge John J. Adams, of Zanesville, the Foraker candidate for the place was with his chief. He had accompanied him from Canton. He, too, was among the non-talkers, and had nothing to say about his turn-down by the president because of reported Dayton convention deals.

Congressman Nicholas Longworth since his formal declaration for Taft, does not stand high in the estimation of Foraker. His name drew about the only direct statement from the visitor. When asked about the Longworth statement, Foraker replied: "I don't think it's of the slightest importance what Nick Longworth says about anything. I haven't time to waste on him."

A constant stream of callers greeted Senator Foraker from the time he arrived until he retired. The heads of state departments called out of respect to his position. At the hotel last evening the ex-politicians got in their work. They went in droves. George W. Bope, Eli M. West and Charles H. Gerrish headed the Columbus delegation. Congressman Harry T. Bannon of Portsmouth in the Tenth district, the sole known representative of Forakerism in the Ohio delegation in the lower house at Washington also was conspicuous.

ous. Warden O. B. Gould of the penitentiary stayed long enough to say "Howdy."

David H. Moore of Athens, internal revenue collector and W. C. Kennedy, surveyor of customs here, were in the federal officeholders' delegation. Rev. Abraham Grant, colored, of Indianapolis, bishop in the African Methodist Episcopal church told Foraker that Ohio colored men were with him.

During the evening an invitation to address the Civic League in Oberlin, before an audience from Oberlin, Ohio Wesleyan of Delaware and other colleges was received. An audience of 2000 is guaranteed. The answer will be given from Cincinnati today. The other speaking dates are: Steubenville, Decoration day; Springfield college, colored, near Wilberforce; Guernsey County Chautauqua at Cambridge.

Senator Foraker will leave for Cincinnati early this morning without meeting Insurance Commissioner A. L. Vorys, the Taft manager. The latter was in Cincinnati conferring with Charles P. Taft and remained there last night.

THAW JURY.

length of time, and buoyancy of spirit is nearly always apparent.

There were all sorts of rumors and guesses in the air as to how the jury stood. There were more different reports as to the results of the ballots than there could possibly have been test votes taken. None of the reports had any degree of authenticity. Some were uttered in jest by prominent figures connected with the trial, and occasionally these were taken, in deadly earnest by those who overheard them.

The action of the jury in twice going before Justice Fitzgerald to have certain portions of the testimony read to them, was widely commented upon, and naturally caused much speculation. It seemed evident that the jury's deliberations were blighting upon the question of the sanity or insanity of the defendant as shown by the defense.

Justice Fitzgerald spent the entire evening in his chambers awaiting the pleasure of the jurors.

Two extra court officers were sworn in shortly after six o'clock and will assist the regular court officers in attending the jury.

All the members of the Thaw family remained at the courthouse and sent out for their dinner rather than face the crowds who surrounded the courthouse.

At 6:48 Justice Fitzgerald announced a recess until 9 o'clock. The jury at that time had shown no signs of reaching an agreement. At 6:53 Justice Fitzgerald left the courthouse for dinner. A few minutes later the jurors started for the Broadway Central for dinner. In spite of their long confinement they looked fresh and were laughing and talking together when they left the building. Juror Pink, who was ill during the day, looked much better than when he appeared in court yesterday afternoon. The strain so far does not seem to have told particularly on any of the other jurors.

When the jurors returned last night from dinner one of them, John S. Dennee, No. 10, carried a grip. The waiting crowd regarded this as an indication that the jury had either reached a verdict or expected to be discharged last night.

Thaw was brought over from the Tombs after dinner and was visited in the prisoner's pen by his mother, his wife and his sisters. The women seemed greatly fatigued by their long wait for some definite news from the jury.

BRIGADIER GENERAL THOMAS H. BARRY, WHO IS IN COMMAND IN CUBA.

Brigadier General Thomas H. Barry, commanding the United States army forces now in Cuba, has had wide experience in military affairs. A native of New York, he was graduated from West Point, at the age of twenty-two, in 1877. He served first in the cavalry and later in the infantry, rising to the rank of lieutenant colonel by the time of the Spanish war. He was made a brigadier general of volunteers and served in the China relief expedition and in the Philippines. He was chief of staff for the Philippine forces. In the summer of 1903 General Barry became a brigadier in the regular army.

The prisoner's mother appeared entirely worn out as she went to cheer her son after dinner. She found him still smiling and confident. There were few persons in or about the courts building. The early evening passed without incident.

Pittsburg, April 12.—No matter how cruel Harry Thaw and Evelyn have been to me, I would like to see the jury acquit the defendant in the case for the comfort it would be to Florence. I sincerely hope the jury does acquit him, and soon, for the sake of my daughter and what it means to her peace of mind.

This is the statement made by Mrs. Charles Holman, mother of Mrs. Harry K. Thaw, after a strenuous 18 hours of anxiety awaiting the return of the Thaw jury.

When it is understood that it was almost an impossibility for anything accurate from the jury room, Mrs. Holman was inclined to think it a bad omen.

Beyond making the expressions above, Mrs. Holman had nothing to say. Nor would her husband talk for publication at this time.

REBECCA M'KISSON GRANTED DIVORCE

In Common Pleas Court of Ashland County.

Judge Young had Refused to Grant the Decree When Case was Tried Here.

Rebecca E. McKisson, formerly of this city, was granted a divorce from William D. McKisson in the common pleas court of Ashland county, Thursday. The case was heard before Judge Campbell, H. E. Hill and Fred E. Guthery, two Marion attorneys, appearing for the plaintiff and defendant, respectively.

Mr. and Mrs. McKisson were married in Ashland in 1897 and have two children, aged five and eight years. Shortly after their marriage they came to Marion, where Mr. McKisson secured employment with the Marion Steam Shovel company. He still makes his home here.

August 25, 1903, McKisson filed a petition for divorce in the Marion county court. Judge Young refused to grant him a divorce. Mrs. McKisson had filed an answer and cross petition, and on this she was given the custody of the children and was awarded $8 a month alimony. She later moved to Ashland county, where she brought suit for divorce.

In giving his decree, Judge Campbell allowed the decision of Judge Young, giving Mrs. McKisson the children and a money, to stand.

In the two damage suits of George Demetrie, administrator of the estate of John Constantiff, against the Norris & Christian Lime & Stone company and George E. Bailey against the Norris & Christian Lime & Stone company the defendants have filed motions to have the petitions made more definite and certain.

The defendants in the suits of Gottlieb Kohberger against the C. C. C. & St. L. railway company, and Anthony Parrish against the trustees of Grand township, were given permission, Friday morning, to file answers by May 1.

CLEANING UP DAY WAS A FAILURE

Rain Interfered Greatly with Mayor's Plans.

In Spite of the Weather the "White Wings" were Busy—Another Date to be Set.

The spring cleaning movement inaugurated some time ago by Mayor Scherff for today, was given a knock out blow by the weather man and the down pour of rain prevented much work being done.

The failure of the weather to change is a severe disappointment to the mayor, who was very anxious for a bright warm day, in order to allow residents to clean up their properties, thereby improving the sanitary condition of the city, and adding much to its general appearance.

Notwithstanding the bad weather, many persons did as much cleaning as was possible under the circumstances. The garbage wagons have been exceptionally busy all day, and there are many days of work ahead of them. Under George Blum, the street commissioner, all of the employees of the street cleaning department were out today cleaning the streets, and assisting in the movement as far as is possible.

The mayor will probably set aside another day for spring cleaning, after the weather has become settled, and a hearty co-operation on the part of everyone will be urged.
